“ I saw Sue's death in the Courier-Journal and want to send my sympathy to all of you. I'm so sorry and pray that God will bless you with peace and comfort in the coming days. It takes time for broken hearts to heal, though. I know you love and will miss her terribly. She was so talented, funny, and cheerful, in spite of the many challenges she faced in her life. I have sent her a Christmas card each year since she moved to Louisville. I never did hear back from her but I figured it was probably difficult for her to even get cards. I just wanted her to know I remembered her and thought of her. This year she sent me a card and I was so glad to hear from her. She reminisced about the fun times we had when we were meeting at the MARC building. She wished me peace for the new year and said it was something she had come to cherish, since there seemed to be so little of it in the world. She said she took heart when she remembered a talk I gave one time about finding peace in reading the scriptures. How in the world did she remember that from so many years ago? That's amazing! Now she has found eternal peace. Again, my sympathy and I'm praying for you. God bless.
